

HEALTH IN HIS HANDS

ANOTHER LADY WHO HAD SUFFERED FOR YEARS IS CURED BY THE BOY PHENOMENON.

His Many Remarkable Cures Still the Talk of Marion—Cure Follows Cure in Quick Succession Under His Magical Hands.

While He Will Remain in Marion the Reduced Prices Will Positively End June 6 After Which His Regular Fees Will Be Charged.

And still the wonderful work of healing afflicted humanity goes bravely on. Day after day crowds of the most prominent and refined ladies and gentlemen in Marion and vicinity may be seen in the parlors of the Boy Phenomenon at the Majestic Hotel, patiently waiting their turn for consultation, and treatment by the Boy Phenomenon. Many are just commencing treatment who for years have considered their affliction hopeless and incurable, but who were led to take this treatment after personally witnessing the many phenomenal cures performed upon our best citizens, and then investigating their condition weeks afterwards for the purpose of satisfying themselves as to the permanency of a cure by vital magnetism, while others may be seen emerging from the treatment rooms, their smiling faces telling their own happy story, some bidding the doctor goodbye with tears of joy in their eyes, a "God bless you, doctor," and an expression of praise and gratitude sufficing their joyful countenances that is most happy in the extreme.

Another of the many remarkable transformations accomplished since his arrival here is that of Mrs. Ralph Stevens, wife of the well known and popular Judge of Caledonia township, who besides being one of the oldest is also one of the most respected and highly esteemed ladies of the county. Her cure is especially remarkable because of the startling rapidity in which it was effected. While several other more serious complaints have been permanently cured the past six weeks, some of them required three or four treatments, while in the case of Mrs. Stevens, she used her own words, she says: "I experienced relief as soon as he treated me, and it is the first time I have been free from pain in years. Why, sir, I have not been free from pain in five years until now, and for 2 years have had to use crutches every step I took. Everyone knows it has been impossible for me to get around or even do my household work. The pain was so bad and my joints were so stiff that I often had to have help in getting in and out of bed. No one knows what agony I suffered the past few years, therefore, the relief this young man has given me has made me feel most grateful."

Mrs. Stevens seemed so thankful that her pain was gone and that she was able to get around without pain or crutches, that she was further questioned as to her experience, which is here related in her own words: "About 5 years ago, I had a severe attack of La Grippe. Soon after rheumatism set in and this was followed by pleurisy pains and neuralgia which laid me in bed completely. Then my kidneys became affected and my back hurt me so that it was impossible to get around. Then my stomach got out of order, I had gas in my stomach and it bloated and became so sore I could not eat, then my strength failed and I was so weak I could not walk, and the past two years had to use crutches. Such constant agony brought on female troubles, constipation and a general weakness, debilitated rundown condition, and made me a physical wreck. But the worst was yet to come, for then my nerves gave out and I was down with nervous prostration which was worse than all my other troubles. Such was my hopeless and helpless condition when a friend who had been cured by the Boy Phenomenon visited me and insisted that I should try his treatment. I did so, but without the least particle of faith, as I was being deceived by the best physicians who said my case was a puzzle to them."

"I did not think a young man who did not claim to be a doctor could cure me, but my doubts were soon set aside, as after the very first treatment I felt a decided improvement and the next two treatments made such a wonderful transformation that

I feel like a new woman. I have not shed my crutches since the last treatment. I have no pain at all, I sleep like a baby, my kidneys and bowels are regular, I digest all I eat and have no gas or sour stomach. My nervousness is all gone, I am not dependent or blue or melancholic, but light-hearted and happy as a girl. I am, of course, very grateful for my sudden restoration."

The Boy Phenomenon not only cures such cases, but nearly all chronic diseases succumb to his power, especially such as catarrh, impotent con- sideration or blue or melancholic, but diarrhoea, neuralgia, nervous prostration, diabetes, Bright's disease, epilepsy, tumors in all conditions, diseases of a delicate nature, hip disease, deafness, heart disease, bladder disorders, piles, chronic rheumatism, obstinate constipation, disorders of women, cataract of eyes, cancer, scabies, paralysis, liver complaint, kidney trouble, scrofula, gravel, throat disorders, impotency, nervous disorders of all kinds, appendicitis, blood disease, vital weakness, prostatic troubles, gonorrhea, despondency, etc. etc.

Those who desire the services of this wonderful gifted young man should lose no time in securing an appointment, if they wish to take advantage of the present reduced prices, as his time is being rapidly taken up. While he will remain in Marion for some time, the reduced price of treatment will positively end on June 5, after which the regular price will be charged.

Office hours at the Majestic Hotel are from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily, except the Sabbath and 7 to 8 evenings.

Would Not Consider It a Menace.

Washington, July 2.—Japan would not regard it as an unduly act if the American government increased her naval representation in her territorial waters on the Pacific coast, or if she sent additional men-of-war to the Asiatic station. She would not look upon it as a menace or regard it with regret. "These were the words of Viscount Aoki, the Japanese ambassador to the United States, when his attention was called Tuesday to reports that the general board of the navy had recommended that the battleships of the American fleet be sent to the Pacific coast."

A Strike of Miners.

Cohasset, Ont., July 3.—Three hundred miners went on strike Tuesday in the Nipissing mines. About 50 men remained at work. The trouble arose over wages.

Struck for an Eight-Hour Day.

St. Louis, July 3.—Five hundred cabinetmakers and planers employed in hardwood and cabinet custom shops went out on strike Tuesday, following a refusal of an eight-hour day at the rate of 35 cents an hour in lieu of a nine-hour shift at 30 cents an hour.

Three Lives Lost in Fire.

Houston, Tex., July 3.—Fire started by burglars who looted a grocery store here early Tuesday caused the death of three children of Jacob Prager, who conducted the store and whose family occupied the upper floor of the building.

A CHEAT SOLD AT AUCTION.

How a Gambler Paid For Alexandria's Town Clock.

The public sale of a gambler on a block used for auctioning off negroes once paid for a clock for the city of Alexandria, Va., just across the Potomac river from Washington.

In the days ago the historic old city of Alexandria was known as a place where all kinds of games suited to the sporting fraternity could be found without difficulty. Stories of large sums lost and won are still current. Of these none is more interesting than the one which reveals the history of the old town clock of that ancient city.

The story is to the effect that on one occasion Alexandria was infested by a party of shrewd gamblers from the southwest. At that time an interesting game could sometimes be made up with citizens of high standing, but who enjoyed a brush at cards. One of these, a merchant, fell into a snare which was set for him by the visiting gamblers, aided by a local stool pigeon.

After a series of games the gentleman found himself out of pocket several thousand dollars and the gamblers in possession of his notes for large amounts. The citizen "made good." But a lucky thought enabled him to bring about his revenge on the leader of the blacklegs. He was acquainted with the fact there was an old law of the state and a similar law is still on the statute books in which it was made and provided "that if any man cannot show that he is pursuing some lawful means of procuring a livelihood he shall be sold or hired out at public auction or sale to prevent by his labor his becoming chargeable to the town." Going before a justice of the peace, the "good citizen" entered a charge against the leading gambler, who was immediately arrested by the town marshal. He was carried to court, tried, convicted, and the sentence was that he be sold at public auction.

The "good citizen's" programme went through without a slip. The auctioneer was at first disposed to treat the matter as a huge joke, believing that with the outlay of a little of his easily earned money he could secure his freedom. But he did not know the temper of the Virginian. He spent the night in prison and was taken on the following morning to the "block" and put up for sale. The first bid came from a "good citizen," and it was an even

MISS ETHEL McDONALD, NEW YORK'S MOST BEAUTIFUL GIRL.

In a beauty contest conducted by the New York Sunday World, in which there were thousands of competitors, Miss Ethel McDonald was declared to be worthy of the title "the most beautiful girl in New York." Miss McDonald lives in Manhattan borough. She is a native of the city, is eighteen years of age and is a student in the Normal college.

$100. Bidding for his own freedom the blackleg quickly offered twice that sum. This was raised to $300 by the second merchant and in turn to $400 by the gambler. While the assembled crowd cheered and laughed the two alternately responded to the auctioneer's appeals until the bidding reached $2,000.

Then the gambler begged for mercy, pleading poverty. He declared that his companions had deserted him and carried off the larger part of all winnings made in the town. The "good citizen" calmly raised the bid to $2,100. There was no alternative, the gambler must either be forced into a service of degrading labor under the supervision of a man who had small cause to love him or he must go on bidding for himself. When the bidding reached $3,500 he was permitted to pay over the amount and depart from Alexandria, a crowd of hooting, yelling men and boys following him to the wharf. The proceeds of the sale of the gambler were given to the town for the purpose of buying a town clock and building a steeple for the town hall and market house. This was destroyed by fire in 1871, but a new structure was erected on the same site, the steeple and clock being made as near like the old as possible.—Kansas City Star.

A Funny Book.

An old actor who was not much given to the cheering glass, says the Bill-board, one evening went to dine at the club with a friend—met several more, with the result that he got "pretty mellow." He left his friends and started home and said to himself: "My boy, you're drunk. What are you going to do about it? I know. I'll go home and read. Whoever heard about a drunken man reading?" Well, home he went in a cab—went to the library and commenced to read. Mrs. Actor later appeared on the scene. "What on earth are you doing?" she questioned.

"Why—er—can't you see what I'm doing, my dear? I'm reading."

"Reading?" said his wife scornfully. "What are you reading?"

He looked at the book, but couldn't see the words, so said, "That book's been in the house for the last twenty years, so if you don't know I'm not going to tell you."

To this his wife replied wrathfully, "You old fool, shut up that valise and come to bed."

John Knox as a Prophet.

John Knox, the reformer, would seem to have possessed in no ordinary degree the spirit of prediction and to have foretold with accuracy not only certain remarkable events of public importance, but also the ultimate fate of certain individuals. Thus when condemned to the galleys at Rochelle he took his sentence with the greatest composure, merely remarking that in spite of it he would "within two or three years preach the gospel in St. Giles, Edinburgh." This prediction, most improbable of accomplishment at the time it was uttered, was afterward literally fulfilled. Knox predicted with accuracy the deaths of Thomas Maitland and Kirkcaldy of Oranoe and solemnly warned the regent, Murray, not to go to Linnithgow, as if he did so he would there meet his death. The regent disregarded the warning and did meet with the fate of which Knox had forewarned him.

On the other hand, the month of shavers proved fatal to Shakespeare, Wordsworth (both

MEASURING BY HAND.

A Way to Tell Time or to Find the Height of a Mountain.

Two strangers in New York from the rural regions were strolling along the Battery wall one day. A policeman toyed gaily with his tasseled billy. One of the farmers remarked: "Coke, ain't it 'bout time we was was about-natin'?" It must be high on to 5 o'clock. "Train leaves at half past," Coke approached the policeman. "Say, Mr. Cop, kin you tell me when the sun set?" "Tain't set yet," the officer replied. "When do it set?" "Naw, but fer-ort ter know sunn't." "See that sun over there on the island?" When she fires the sun have set.

The farmers were much annoyed. They did not intend to wait for the discharge of the cannon. A gentleman in specs came along. He looked like a professor of something. "Mister, kin you tell us when the sun set today?" "Ah! The going down of the same? Certainly. Today—today—let me calculate. Yes, yes! The sun sets today at exactly four minutes after 7." "Thanky, sir. 'Coke" to his partner—"Call it 7. Now, what's the time?" Coke extended his arm at full length on a straight line from the shoulder, bent his hand at right angles, the four fingers close together, and began to measure strips of sky from the horizon heavenward. In sighting, the outside of the little finger was at the horizon and the outside of the forefinger was just one hour above. Each "hand" meant one hour. "What be it?" asked Coke. "Two hands and er half," replied his companion. "Want, that means two and er half less a 7. It's half past 4."

In measuring the height of a horse we strike a vertical line from the withers and say so many hands, as 15, 16, 17, etc., allowing four inches to the hand. A horse of fifteen hands is sixty inches, or five feet high. The four fingers of the hand held at right angles to the arm and at arm's length from the eye cover about seven degrees. And an angle of seven degrees corresponds to about 12 feet 2½ inches in 100 feet, or to 30½ feet in 100 yards, or to 445 feet in one mile, etc. With a little experience one can soon tell with tolerable accuracy the height of mountains without the use of expensive instruments. In telling the time it is necessary of course to have a pretty definite idea of the hour the sun sets.—New York Press.

The Baker's Dozen.

The term "baker's dozen" is much older than the seventeenth century. It took its origin, doubtless in medieval London, when bakers sold their bread solely or largely through hawkers, or as we should say today, hawkers. It was the custom of the baker in dealing with the hawker to count thirteen loaves of bread to the dozen. The odd loaf was apparently the hawker's sole profit.

How ancient was this practice may be gathered from the "Liber Albus," or white book of the city of London, that minute code for the regulation of commercial morality in medieval London. Here is laid down: "That no baker of the town shall give into regratresses the sixpence on Monday morning by the way of house-money; but after the ancient manner, let him give 'thirteen articles of bread for twelve.'"

The practice of giving thirteen to the dozen has since invaded many other callings, such as the book and newspaper trade, but the ancient trade of the baker may justly claim to have coined a phrase which will live as long as the English language.—London Mail.
